EPILEPSY SOUTH AFRICA PRIVACY STATEMENT

Your privacy is important to Epilepsy South Africa. This policy (together with our terms and conditions of use) sets out the basis on which any personal data this site collects from you, or that you provide to Epilepsy South Africa, will be processed by the organisation. Please read the following carefully to understand Epilepsy South Africa’s views and practices regarding your personal data and how the organisation will treat it. Epilepsy South Africa obtains and retains certain basic information when you visit this website and recognises the importance of keeping that information secure and letting you know what the organisation will do with it.

Personal information collection

Epilepsy South Africa may collect and use the following kinds of personal information:

- information about your use of this website (Google Analytics);
- information that you provide when registering on the website (including your use of the Epilepsy South Africa blog pages);
- information that you provide when subscribing to our website services (including the electronic newsletter);
- we may also ask you to complete surveys that we use for research purposes (although you do not have to respond to them); and
- any counselling request sent to or communication with our online counsellor (socdev.no@epilepsy.org.za).

Using personal information

Epilepsy South Africa may use your personal information to:

- administer this website;
- with your consent publish information about you on the website (only with regard to your submission of information to this website or the blog pages);
- supply you with counselling or referral services via the online counsellor at your request;
- send you communication material (such as the electronic newsletter).

Where Epilepsy South Africa discloses your personal information to its agents or sub-contractors for these purposes, the agent or sub-contractor in question will be obligated to use that personal information in accordance with the terms of this privacy statement.

In addition to the disclosures reasonably necessary for the purposes identified above, Epilepsy South Africa may disclose your personal information to the extent that it is required to do so by law, in connection with any legal proceedings or prospective legal proceedings, and in order to establish, exercise or defend its legal rights.
IP addresses and cookies

Epilepsy South Africa may collect information about your computer, including (where available) your IP address, operating system and browser type, for system administration. This is statistical data about the browsing actions and patterns of this site’s users, and does not identify any individual and will not collect personal information.

Epilepsy South Africa may obtain information about your general internet usage through a cookie file which is stored on the hard drive of your computer. Cookies contain information transferred to your computer’s hard drive. These help the organisation to improve our and deliver a better and more personalised services.

You may refuse to accept cookies by activating the setting on your browser which allows you to refuse the setting of cookies. Unless you have adjusted your browser setting so that it will refuse cookies, this system will issue cookies when you visit this site.

Securing your data

Epilepsy South Africa will take reasonable technical and organisational precautions to prevent the loss, misuse or alteration of your personal information.

Epilepsy South Africa will store all the personal information you provide on its secure servers.

Donations made via the website’s online donations portal are further protected by the payment facilitator’s adherence to relevant legislation and own privacy policy.

Updating this statement

Epilepsy South Africa may update this privacy policy by posting a new version on this website. You should check this page occasionally to ensure you are familiar with any changes.

Other websites

This website contains links to other websites. Epilepsy South Africa is not responsible for the privacy policies or practices of any third party.

Contact Epilepsy South Africa

If you have any questions about this privacy policy or the online counsellor treatment of your personal information, please write:

- by email to info@epilepsy.org.za; or

- by post to Epilepsy South Africa, Po Box 12100, N1 City, 7463

*Credit

This document was created using content from a Contractology template available at http://www.freenetlaw.com.